Welcome!
Welcome to the very first Security B-side event here in Washington DC! Over 15 months in the making, countless hours have been donated by members of the local information security community to produce an event worthy of the Security B-Sides name. We are happy to bring you two full days of speakers, training, networking and beer! As with all B-sides events, we strive for an open environment of learning, sharing and most of all, participation from infosec professionals of all experience levels and disciplines. If this is your first Security B-sides event, we welcome you and recommend using your Google engine to discover the entire family of B-sides conferences. For those infosec curmudgeons that know the B-sides scene all too well, we raise our glass to you in honor of your continued support and contribution to the infosec community.

Badges:
Throughout the course of the event, you will see several different badge colors. Note that orange and red badges will be worn by event staff along with sand colored “staff” shirts. Should you need assistance please seek out these individuals.

Blue Attendee - These badges represent the Attendee Hacker (Thief) class. Rogues, all of them!

Orange Organizer - If you see this badge, you are in the presence of a Level 42 Wizard of Organization. The holders of this badge are well known for their Charisma, dexterity with Powerpoint, and melee combat prowess. Should they make a request, all are expected to obey.

Red Volunteer - Respect the red badge wearing Volunteer Scouts and consult them should you need information or assistance. They possess a skirmish ability as well in the event you need back up.

White Speaker - Our speakers wear the White Bard Badge of Knowledge. Be sure to thank them for sharing their knowledge this weekend.

Green Vendor - The Merchants of the Marketplace sport the green badge and keep the wheels of commerce turning for us all.

Black Competition Winner - You probably won’t see a black badge. Why? These are the Ninjas. They are highly skilled and usually invisible. If you do happen to see one, well, good luck with that.
Principles & Values

Conduct
We believe that there are simple rules for governance at any meeting of people striving to be a community:

- Don’t be an asshole.
- Be willing to learn.
- Be willing to share.
- Be willing to help.
- Be willing to listen.
- Accept criticism.
- Be kind.

B-Sides DC is not an elementary school. It’s not a land full of rainbows and unicorns. Neither is it hell on earth. If you believe someone is misbehaving, acting inappropriately, or acting illegally, start by talking to that person. Confirm your perspective. If you are unable, or unwilling, to do that, that’s OK -- find a B-Sides DC Staff member and talk to them.

Principles
Security B-Sides operates under three simple principles:

1. Expand the conversation.
2. Enable people to join the discussion.
3. Get people involved.

B-Sides DC supports those principles as part of our regional B-Sides operation. What that means is that B-Sides DC is your conference. It is up to everyone involved to make it happen, to engage in the debates, to speak up and give voice to the issues. Feedback to the organizers is always welcome.

Values
Each B-Sides is a community-driven framework for building events for, and by, information security professionals. The goal is to expand the spectrum of conversation beyond the traditional confines of space and time. B-Sides creates opportunities for individuals to both present and participate in an intimate atmosphere that encourages collaboration. It is an intense event with discussions, demos, and interaction from participants. It is where conversations for the next big thing are happening.

We value
- We lower the barriers for people to participate.
- We involve people in organizing the events, to help them participate, involve a diversity of input, and teach a new generation of organizers.
- We build and use tools that enable greater participation, share ideas, and enable others to share the magic we collectively create. We share our work openly.
- We help grow the community, because a stronger group helps everyone involved.

We participate
- There are no bystanders.
- We all participate in different ways, including: audience, speakers, organizers, sponsors, volunteers.
- We encourage everyone to share their skills, expertise, and talent.

We steward
- We make decisions that strengthen the brand for everyone, not just ourselves.
- We remember that we are not owners of the brand, or the event, but simply caretakers that carry the torch for a period of time, until we pass it to others.
- We treat others with grace and respect at all times.
Sponsors
Events cost money, and we want very little of those costs to be borne by attendees. As with many Security B-Sides, our goal is to provide you with a fantastic, educational, and fun weekend of information security knowledge sharing and community building. And so we give a special shout out to our sponsors, for making B-Sides DC a reality.

B-sides DC Floor Plan
RAPID AFTERPARTY!

Join us for the BsidesDC afterparty at the Ironhorse Taproom:

507 7th St NW, Washington, D.C., DC 20004

Have a round on us!
Rapid 7 will be providing drink tickets to BsidesDC attendees which can be used to redeem beers up to a $6 value. Present your BsidesDC badge at the door any time after 6:30 to redeem your ticket. We can’t guarantee everyone a drink, so get there early!

The following DC local breweries will be on tap:

Happy Hour Special: $2 off all draft beers before 8 PM.

Atlas Rowdy Rye - $6

Atlas NSFW - $8 ($6 during Happy Hour)

DC Brau Corruption IPA - $6

3 Star Citra & Lemon Peel Saison - $8 ($6 during Happy Hour)

Port City Maniacal Double IPA - $8 ($6 during Happy Hour)
There are hundreds of places to eat in Washington DC. From five star restaurants to food trucks, there is something for everyone. We have provided a list of some of the places within walking distance (distance is per Yelp!) of the Washington Marriott at Metro Center where BSides DC is being held.
